Family in Indonesian

Families are very important in Indonesia. It is not unusual to find aunties, uncles, cousins or grandparents living in one house. An older sibling must be treated with respect. Younger children use a term of respect such as 'mas' (for older brothers) or 'mbak' (for older sisters) instead of their names.

If you were staying in an Indonesian home what would you call the seventeen year old daughter of the family? ______________