Money in Indonesia - the Rupiah

The Indonesian money is called rupiah and it is written as Rp. Rupiah comes in coins and notes. The smallest coin is worth Rp 50, while the largest is worth Rp 100,000. You can't buy much with Rp 50. If a shop runs out of small change, they usually give you a lolly instead.

You buy a packet of cornchips worth Rp 1,750 and pay for it with two notes of Rp 1,000. The shop keeper gives you Rp 200 change and a lolly. How much is the lolly worth? ____________
