Preface

This report presents:

- information collected from the census of students from language backgrounds other than English conducted in all government schools in August 1998;
- new arrivals data for the period 1 November 1997 to 31 October 1998;
- information collected from the English as a Second Language (ESL) Survey completed in June 1998 by all schools in receipt of ESL Index funding and/or Multicultural Education Aide funding in their 1998 school global budgets;
- interpreting and translating data for 1998.

The first section provides broad data relating to students from language backgrounds other than English and information on support provided to schools which sets the context for the following two sections.

The second section provides information on ESL provision for newly arrived students in intensive ESL settings.

The third section provides information on ESL provision for students from language backgrounds other than English in mainstream schools.

This report is also published online and is available at:

www.sofweb.vic.edu.au/lem/esl/eannu.htm together with previous reports.

Introduction

In 1998, 131,919 students in government schools (approximately 25 per cent) were from language backgrounds other than English. Of these, 3,502 were newly arrived in Australia. More than 70 languages were spoken in their homes.

A student is defined as having a language background other than English if either the student or one or both parents were born in a non-English speaking country. The term 'language background other than English' is considered to relate to both cultural and linguistic aspects of students' backgrounds. Of this broad group, approximately 32 per cent met the criteria for English as a Second Language (ESL) index funding, that is, English was not the main language spoken at home and they had been enrolled in an Australian school for less than 7 years.

Extending services to government school students for whom English is a second language was a Victorian Government priority in 1998. Included in these services was the provision of specific ESL programs aimed to improve the educational opportunities and outcomes of these students. The ESL support provided includes:

- ESL for newly arrived students in intensive programs
- ESL support for students in mainstream schools.

Data Collection

In order to maintain accurate statistical records on students for whom English is a second language for planning and funding purposes and for State and Commonwealth accountability requirements, the Department collects the following data:

Language Background Other Than English Census

This census provides detailed information on students from language backgrounds other than English who are enrolled in government schools in Victoria. The census is completed by all schools in August each year. ESL Index Funding for the following year is based on this census.

New Arrivals Data Collection

The Department collects data on newly arrived students twice a year in accordance with Commonwealth requirements.

ESL Survey

The ESL survey, conducted annually in June by the ESL Section, of the LOTE, ESL and Multicultural Education Branch, seeks information from all schools in receipt of ESL Index Funding and provides a profile of student types and information on ESL programs operating in government schools.

Students' Language Backgrounds

Support Services for Students from Language Backgrounds other than English

The provision of appropriate ESL programs for students from language backgrounds other than English is a key strategy in the Department's overall literacy goal of ensuring that every child leaving school is numerate, and able to read, write and spell at an appropriate level. Proficiency in English is a prerequisite for effective participation in Australian society and is a key factor in accessing the range of services available. With almost 25 per cent of the population being from a language background other than English, the provision of appropriate English as a Second Language (ESL) programs in Victorian government schools is an essential element of our education system.

LOTE, ESL and Multicultural Education Branch

The ESL Section of the LOTE, ESL and Multicultural Education Branch coordinates and provides services to support students and families from language backgrounds other than English and aims to support schools improve the access of these students to a high-quality education.

Support for New Arrivals

English language schools and centres

In the government sector, newly-arrived primary and secondary students from language backgrounds other than English are able to attend an intensive English language program to prepare them for mainstream schooling. While the programs cater mainly for permanent residents, some students who are temporary residents are able to enrol. In 1998 the New Arrivals Program was delivered principally through three English language schools, ten English language centres, the Geelong English Language Program and the Shepparton New Arrivals Program. Students are enrolled in the full-time program for between six to twelve months, and are taught English within the context of the key learning areas. The intensive programs are structured to promote smooth transition into mainstream schools. Students can enrol directly into the English language schools or centres, or they can be referred by a school or organisation. Enrolment enquiries should be made at the English language school or centre closest to where the student is living. Refer to Appendix 1 for a listing of all English language schools and centres, including contact details.

Outposting program

Sometimes newly-arrived primary students are unable to travel long distances to attend intensive ESL programs. Where there are significant numbers of these students enrolled in one school or in a cluster of schools, teachers from English language schools and centres may be outposted to a primary school or cluster to provide an intensive English program. The visiting teacher component of the outposting program provides targeted support to new arrival students in schools in the outer-metropolitan area.

Isolated ESL student support

ESL support is available through the Isolated ESL Student Support Program for eligible new arrival students in isolated settings and country areas who require ESL support. A combination of mentor training and short term funding is available to schools to support these students.

New arrivals kit

Schools in country and outer metropolitan areas where isolated new arrival students enrol can borrow a selection of appropriate resources on request. Kits are available on long-term loan for both primary and secondary students. The kits and advice about their use can be obtained from the ESL project officers at the Languages and Multicultural Education Resource Centre (LMERC).

Support for post new arrivals

ESL index funding

Resource allocations for ESL program support in schools are based on the language background other than English census conducted in schools each August. Allocations are weighted to reflect students' recency of arrival and their stage of schooling. Schools need to reach a funding threshold before being eligible for this funding.

Multicultural education aides

Funding is provided to some schools for the employment of multicultural education aides (MEAs) to assist with communication between the school and the parents of students from language backgrounds other than English, and to support these students in the classroom.

Support for teachers

Curriculum materials

A range of curriculum materials is available to support teachers of students who are learning English as a second language.

The ESL Companion to the English CSF (Board of Studies) provides a broad overview of stages of English language development and sets out the framework for ESL Course Advice and ESL curriculum materials written in Victoria. Refer to Appendix 2 for a list of recent ESL publications. A listing of publications is also available at: www.sofweb.vic.edu.au/lem/esl/ecurri.htm.

Languages and Multicultural Education Resources Centre (LMERC)

LMERC is a resource centre that supports programs and curriculum development in Victorian schools in the areas of ESL, LOTE and Multicultural Education. Services provided include a library, resource centre and ESL advice. In addition, a selection of ESL, LOTE and multicultural education materials are available for sale.

Professional development

ESL in the Mainstream Professional Development Course

This ten-week course is aimed at ESL teachers and subject teachers working in mainstream schools with students from language backgrounds other than English. The course encompasses information and strategies to assist teachers to better meet the needs of their ESL students. The Department funds the training of course tutors and provides support for participants.

www.sofweb.vic.edu.au/lem/esl/eeslm.htm

ESL training program

Support from the Department is available to teachers wishing to undertake approved TESOL courses. Costs associated with seventy hours of theory are fully met by the Department, with additional support provided for the practicum component of approved courses. Further details are available at:

www.sofweb.vic.edu.au/lem/esl/epd.htm

Professional development at LMERC

Two ESL project officers based at LMERC help with program queries and hold workshops for teachers of ESL students, including information sessions where teachers can learn more about the cultural backgrounds of their students, successful classroom strategies, and how to use key ESL curriculum documents.

Workshops are advertised in Victorian School News and on the ESL website at www.sofweb.vic.edu.au/lem/esl/epdact.htm.

VATME

The Victorian Association of Teachers of TESOL and Multicultural Education (VATME) also provides professional development activities through its seminar series, general meetings and newsletter. Further information and contact details are available at: www.acta.edu.au/vatme.

Language services (Interpreting and translating services)

Schools with students and families from language backgrounds other than English need to ensure that information relating to school programs and student progress is made available to parents in their first language. To facilitate this, the Department provides schools with access to qualified/accredited interpreters in line with Victorian Government policy to help Victorians from language backgrounds other than English deal with government departments and agencies. All schools have been provided with the guidelines and booking forms and schools receiving ESL funding with a copy of Working with Interpreters and Organising Translations to help them use these services effectively and appropriately. Current guidelines, including booking forms, are available on the ESL website at: www.sofweb.vic.edu.au/lem/esl/einter.htm.

On-site interpreting services

Interpreters are available to schools for:

- parent-teacher interviews
- information dissemination about specific school programs
- individual student issues relating to discipline or welfare, or to assist with an educational assessment.

Training sessions are also available to schools on a fee for service basis.

Telephone interpreting services

A telephone interpreting service is also available for use by schools. This service can be pre-booked or provided on demand.

Translating services

Translation services are available to schools for the following:

- key items for newsletters 500 words
- notices to parents 150 words
- information on program/activity 250 words

There is a maximum number of words available for each category.

Multilingual notices

Twenty-one commonly-used notices have been translated into nineteen languages and are available on the ESL webpage at:

www.sofweb.vic.edu.au/lem/esl/multi.htm. They include notices for:

- parent-teacher meetings
 - excursion forms
 - Prep. intake

Excursion forms are available on the InformUs CD-ROM provided to schools.

The A-Z Guide for Parents has also been translated in fourteen languages and is available on the ESL website at:

www.sofweb.vic.edu.au/lem/esl/einter.htm#atoz.

ESL For New Arrivals

Newly arrived ESL learners are defined as those who meet the eligibility criteria for Commonwealth per capita funding under the Commonwealth Programmes for Schools. They include permanent residents from language backgrounds other than English who enrol in an intensive ESL program within six months of their arrival in Australia if they are in Years 1 to 12, or within 18 months of arrival if they are in the preparatory year. In addition to those students who meet these criteria, there is a significant number of new arrivals eligible for enrolment in government schools who do not meet the residency criteria and require ESL support. A number of students on bridging visas seeking asylum are also able to access an intensive program providing they are eligible for enrolment in government schools.

A once-only per capita grant of $3,362 was provided by the Commonwealth Government in 1998 for each eligible newly arrived student. In addition, funding for all of the capital works (buildings and related facilities) for the program, as well as a range of grants and allowances, was provided by the State Government.

In 1998 3,502 new arrivals enrolled in Victorian government schools, an increase of 295, or 9.2 per cent from 1997. The majority, 2,738, met the Commonwealth eligibility criteria, while the other 764 students did not meet the residency criterion. These students included Polynesian students on New Zealand passports and students on bridging or temporary visas. Students came from 113 countries and between them spoke more than 68 languages.

The countries of origin of new arrival students vary from year to year and reflect world events and Commonwealth immigration policy. In 1998 the highest numbers of students came from China, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Somalia and Vietnam as shown in Figure 2. The significant changes from 1997 included decreases in the number of students from Vietnam, (239 in 1997 to 163 in 1998), Sri Lanka (139 in 1997 to 75 in 1998) and Cambodia (103 in 1997 to 72 in 1998). Also in 1998 there were increases in the number of students from Somalia (104 in 1997 to 216 in 1998), Afghanistan (53 in 1997 to 121 in 1998) and Bosnia-Herzegovina (193 in 1997 to 271 in 1998). A more extensive list of countries and numbers of new arrival students for 1998 can be found in Appendix 3.

The majority of new arrival students (3,297) were enrolled in schools in the four metropolitan regions. Small numbers were enrolled in schools in Barwon-South Western Region (83) and Goulburn North-Eastern Region (56), with the remaining students (66) spread across the other three non-metropolitan regions. The number of students enrolling in schools in regions other than the metropolitan and Barwon-South Western regions decreased from 138 students in 1997 to 122 in 1998. Central Highland-Wimmera Region enrolled 11 new arrivals, Loddon Campaspe-Mallee enrolled 30 new arrivals, Goulburn North-Eastern enrolled 56 new arrivals and Gippsland Region enrolled 25 new arrival students. Figure 3 shows the number of new arrival students enrolled in Victorian government schools in 1998, by region and by eligibility type.

New Arrival Students' Language Backgrounds

The 3,502 new arrival students who enrolled in Victorian government schools in 1998 spoke more than 68 languages. Chinese (Mandarin) with 327 students (326 in 1997) was the language with the greatest number of students, followed by Serbian with 250 students (up from 192 students in 1997), Somali with 209 students (up from 104 students), Vietnamese with 201 students (down from 277 students) and Arabic with 183 students (up from 159).

Figure 4 shows the percentage breakdown of the main languages spoken by new arrival students in Victoria. Refer to Appendix 4 for a distribution of these students, by language, among the four metropolitan regions, and Appendix 5 for a language breakdown among the five non-metropolitan regions.

Programs for New Arrivals

Newly arrived primary and secondary students from language backgrounds other than English ideally attend an intensive English language program at one of the English language schools and centres (ELS/Cs). A number of primary students who are unable to attend an intensive program at an ELS/C have access to an outposting program. In addition, students in non-metropolitan regions and isolated metropolitan areas are catered for within the mainstream school with the assistance of a New Arrivals Kit and funding provided to schools through the Isolated ESL Student Support Program.

There are three broad categories of students catered for within the new arrivals program:

- permanent residents of Australia who attract Commonwealth funding,
- temporary residents of Australia who do not attract Commonwealth funding but satisfy all Commonwealth eligibility criteria except for that of permanent residency,
- permanent and temporary residents of Australia who fall outside the Commonwealth eligibility criteria in terms of length of time in Australia but are in need of intensive ESL support.

The following data refer to the first two categories of students; that is, permanent and temporary students enrolling within their eligibility period. It should be noted that the New Arrivals Program caters for the third category as well. In reporting on new arrivals, the Department endeavours to account for all new arrivals enrolling in the current period.

English Language Schools and Centres (ELS/Cs)

In 1998 there were 13 ELS/Cs in the metropolitan area. (Refer to Appendix 1 for details of the ELS/Cs.) These settings provide intensive English language instruction at both primary and secondary levels. In 1998, a total of 42.0 equivalent full time (EFT) primary teachers and 90.3 EFT secondary teachers catered for the needs of up to 486 primary and 956 secondary students at any one time. Throughout the year ESL contingency funding was made available to ELS/Cs where the numbers of new arrivals exceeded target enrolments. In 1998, 0.72 EFT primary teachers and 4.66 EFT secondary teachers were funded through contingency funding.

The majority of students attend ELS/Cs for two terms. The smaller classes and the high number of contact hours enable teachers to deliver an intensive program tailored to the differing needs of students, helping them to adapt as quickly as possible to the Australian education system and society. ESL is taught through the content areas of the Key Learning Areas.

Of the 3,502 new arrival students, a total of 1,442 (41.2 per cent) enrolled in ELS/Cs in 1998. Of these, 486 were primary students (22.9 per cent of the total number of primary new arrival students) and 956 were secondary students (69.5 per cent of the total number of secondary new arrival students).

The Geelong English Language Program

A new arrivals program is provided in the Geelong area by a team of teachers working in the Geelong English Language Program. This program is based on a visiting teacher model. In 1998, 2.7 EFT primary teachers and 1.0 EFT secondary teacher provided ESL program support to 25 primary students and 16 secondary students. An additional 0.25 EFT secondary staff was provided through ESL contingency funding. (Refer to Appendix 1 for contact details for the Geelong English Language Program.)

ESL Outposted Services

Outposting involves the assignment of primary teachers from an ELS/C to a mainstream primary school or to a cluster of schools to provide an intensive new arrivals program for eligible newly arrived students for whom English is a second language. These students are unable to attend a program in an ELS/C because of the difficulties for young students travelling to one of the six primary settings in the metropolitan area. Students are grouped according to their stage of schooling and English language needs, and receive an intensive English language program for up to four days a week. The students remain enrolled in their host school and participate in its program when not in the intensive ESL class.

In 1998, 267 new arrival students received an intensive ESL program through outposting in 21 schools.

In 1998, a Visiting Outposting Service was introduced in the Frankston and Werribee areas. This service involves a primary teacher from an ELS/C visiting a number of primary schools within a serviceable geographical area where new arrivals are enrolled. The teacher divides the week amongst the schools, following a timetable that best meets the needs of the targeted students. In 1998, 37 students received a visiting outposting program in 12 schools.

See Appendix 6 for a list of outposting and visiting outposting locations

The Shepparton English Language Program

A new arrivals program established in the Shepparton area in Term 4, 1997, continued during 1998. This program operated within a cluster of schools, sharing teacher resources and providing a program to 24 primary and 7 secondary students.

Isolated ESL Student Support Program

Schools in non-metropolitan regions received targeted funding under the Isolated ESL Student Support Program to support new arrival students in their schools. In 1998, 27 primary students and 6 secondary students received support through this program.

New Arrivals in Mainstream Schools

The 28.4 per cent of secondary new arrival students and 59.3 per cent of primary new arrivals who did not attend an ELS/C or receive other specialist new arrivals support were catered for in mainstream schools. Additional advice and assistance was available from ESL project officers at LMERC as well as through the New Arrivals Kit and funding to schools in non-metropolitan areas through the Isolated ESL Student Support Program.

The New Arrivals Kit

Schools in non-metropolitan and outer metropolitan areas where isolated new arrivals enrolled were provided with a New Arrivals Kit. This kit consists of a selection of appropriate resources, sent to schools upon request. In 1998, New Arrival Kits were made available to 36 primary schools (for 104 students) and 11 secondary schools (for 25 students).

Program Summary

A total of 71.6 per cent of secondary new arrivals and 40.7 per cent of primary new arrivals accessed some form of support through the New Arrivals Program. Table 1 provides a summary of the numbers of students accessing the different new arrival programs.

ESL In Mainstream Schools

In 1998 mainstream schools were provided with ESL Index Funding and funding for Multicultural Education Aides to support students from language backgrounds other than English.

ESL Index Funding

ESL Index Funding is allocated to schools to provide ESL programs and support. Funding in 1998 was based on data collected from the 1997 Language Background Other Than English Census conducted in all government schools in August. As not all students from language backgrounds other than English require specific ESL teaching, students are required to satisfy the following two criteria to be eligible for ESL index funding:

- the main language spoken at home is not English
- students have been enrolled in an Australian school for less than 7 years.

Using these criteria, in 1998, 43,693 of a total of 123,020 students from language backgrounds other than English were identified as requiring ESL teaching. (Please note that the 123,020 total refers to the 1997 August census, which ESL funding for 1998 is based on – the actual total number of students from language background other than English in 1998 is 131,919.)

A weighted formula, that reflects both the length of time in an Australian school and the stage of schooling, was then applied to the students identified. Schools were required to meet a funding threshold of $9,600 for primary and $18,500 for secondary before being eligible for ESL Index Funding. Refer to Appendix 7 for the ESL Index Funding levels, weightings and rates used for 1998.

Allocation of resources

A total of just over $21 million was allocated to 451 schools in 1998 to provide ESL programs, with approximately $9,300,000 being allocated to 337 primary schools and approximately $11,600,000 to 114 secondary colleges. For a listing of schools that received ESL Index Funding in 1998 refer to Appendix 8 for primary schools and Appendix 9 for secondary schools.

Regional Distribution of ESL Index Funding

Figure 5 shows the distribution of ESL Index Funding to each of the regions for both primary and secondary schools.

ESL Programs in Mainstream Schools

There are several possible models for the organisation of ESL programs in mainstream schools. The choice of model depends on such factors as:

- students' age and maturity
- students' length of time in Australia and in Australian schools
- students' exposure to English and prior instruction in English
- students' previous education
- students' fluency and literacy in their first and/or other languages
- students' fluency and literacy in English
- the nature of students' first language, including the script
- students' migration or refugee experiences
- students' cultural background
- the wishes of the students and their parents
- any specific learning difficulties of students
- the students' residential status and the duration of their proposed stay in Australia.

The following broad program types were used by schools to describe their ESL programs in the annual ESL Survey in 1998:

- Direct intensive instruction – that is, direct intensive ESL teaching in similar-needs classes, including transition classes for students who have recently exited from an ELS/C in which content from the mainstream program is taught by the ESL teacher.
- Team teaching – that is, team teaching and/or support teaching where ESL and mainstream teachers plan and teach together.
- Bilingual instruction – that is, sustained teaching of subject content in the home language and in English.
- Other – programs not covered by the above.

Programs in Primary Schools

Three hundred and thirty-seven (337) primary schools received ESL Index Funding or ESL Contingency Funding in 1998 and were required to complete the 1998 ESL Survey. A copy of the current ESL Survey is available at: www.sofweb.vic.edu.au/lem/esl/esch.htm#survey.

A number of schools indicated that they addressed ESL needs through mainstream classes and were therefore not included in any summary data. The following summary data is based on information provided by the 300 schools providing targeted ESL programs.

Direct Intensive instruction (50.0 per cent) and Team Teaching (38.0 per cent) instruction were the preferred program types for the majority of schools. Figure 6 shows a breakdown of program types for metropolitan regions and non-metropolitan regions.

Primary ESL Teacher Qualifications

There were 729 teachers involved in delivering ESL programs in the 300 primary schools that completed the ESL Survey, 6.9 per cent of teachers had an ESL qualification and 0.4 per cent were studying for an ESL qualification while 92.7 per cent had no ESL qualification. Figure 7 shows the percentage of teachers with an ESL qualification, those currently studying for an approved ESL qualification and those with no ESL qualification. Figure 8 provides information on qualifications by region.

A further 84 teachers were reported as having ESL qualifications but not involved in the ESL program and an additional 6 teachers were undertaking an ESL qualification but were not involved in their school's ESL program.

Information was not collected from schools that did not receive ESL Index Funding and that had teachers with ESL qualifications.

Programs in Secondary Schools

One hundred and fourteen (114) secondary schools received ESL Index Funding or ESL Contingency Funding in 1998 and were required to complete the 1998 ESL Survey. A copy of the current ESL Survey is available at www.sofweb.vic.edu.au/lem/esl/esch.htm#survey.

A number of schools indicated that they addressed ESL needs through mainstream classes and were therefore not included in any summary data. The following summary data is based on information provided by the 110 schools providing targeted ESL programs.

Almost 83.4 per cent of secondary ESL programs were Direct Intensive programs, followed by Team Teaching with 11.7 per cent and Other 4.9 per cent. Figure 9 shows a percentage breakdown of program types by region.

Secondary ESL Teacher Qualifications

There were 538 teachers involved in delivering ESL programs in the 110 secondary colleges that completed the ESL Survey, with 52.4 per cent of teachers having ESL qualifications while 46.8 per cent did not have an ESL qualification and 0.7 per cent were studying for an ESL qualification. Figure 10 shows the percentage of teachers with ESL qualifications, those currently studying for an approved ESL qualification and those with no ESL qualifications. Figure 11 provides information on qualifications of teachers by region.

A further 148 teachers were reported as having ESL qualifications but not involved in the ESL program and 5 additional teachers were undertaking an ESL qualification but were not involved in their school's ESL program.

ESL Student Types

The ESL Survey requests information on the types of ESL learners in ESL programs based on length of time in Australia and previous educational background.

Table 3 provides a description of the student types used on the survey and shows the percentage of students in each of the four student types for both primary and secondary students.

TYPE OF STUDENT		Percentage of students in ESL programs
		Primary	Secondary	Overall
Students starting school in Australia with about the same amount of schooling or pre-school learning opportunities in their first language as their peers have had in English. This would include students from language backgrounds other than English, born in Australia.	A: Students who have been in Australia for less than 2 years.	12%	24%	15%
	B: Students who have been in Australia for more than 2 years.	76%	57%	71%
Students starting school in Australia at, or after normal commencement age, who have had minimal exposure to pre-school learning opportunities or who have had severely disrupted schooling or no previous formal schooling in any country.	C: Students who have been in Australia for less than 2 years.	4%	5%	4%
	D: Students who have been in Australia for more than 2 years.	8%	14%	10%

Multicultural Education Aides (MEAs)

Funding is also provided to some schools for the employment of MEAs to assist with communication between the school and parents of students from language backgrounds other than English. MEAs also provide classroom assistance to students for whom English is a second language. They were allocated to schools on the basis of submissions made by schools in 1992.

A total of 236.5 EFT MEA positions were funded in 245 educational settings in 1998. A majority of MEAs are located in the metropolitan regions as can be seen in Figure 12, which shows the distribution of MEAs (EFT) by region for 1998. Refer to Appendix 10 for a listing of all schools receiving MEA funding in 1998. Figure 13 shows the number of schools receiving MEA funding by region.

MEAs were distributed between 153 primary schools, 68 secondary colleges, 5 P-12 schools, 15 ELS/Cs and new arrival settings, and 4 in special schools.

Refer to Figure 14 which shows the distribution of MEAs (EFT) by school type and Figure 15 which shows the number of schools receiving MEA funding by school type.

Of the 245 schools receiving MEA funding in 1998, 218 schools completed the ESL Survey and indicated that there were 428 MEAs employed in their schools providing support to students and school communities.

MEAs spoke 36 different main languages, with the most common languages being Vietnamese (22 per cent of all MEAs), Greek (12 per cent) and Arabic (8 per cent). Two hundred and ninety-three (293) MEAs spoke two languages (including English), 100 MEAs spoke three languages, 25 MEAs spoke four languages and 10 MEAs spoke five or more languages. Figure 16 shows the main languages spoken by MEAs while Appendix 11 provides a listing of all main languages spoken by MEAs in 1998.

MEAs spent most of their time, 60.7 per cent, in classrooms supporting ESL students and a further 19.2 per cent supporting individual ESL students. Refer to Figure 17 for a breakdown of the types of programs MEAs support in schools.

Support for Parents and Schools

Interpreting and Translating Services

Schools need to ensure that information relating to school programs and student progress is made available to parents in their first language. To facilitate this, DEET provides school with access to qualified/accredited interpreters in line with Victorian Government policy to help Victorians from language backgrounds other than English deal with government departments and agencies.

Refer to Appendix 12 for a summary listing of all interpreting and translating assignments by language.

On-site interpreting services

In 1998, a total of 5,242 on site interpreting engagements in 61 languages were provided to 370 schools.

Telephone interpreting services

A total of 1,176 telephone interpreting engagements were provided to 175 schools in 45 languages.

Translating services

800 documents were translated into 44 languages for 95 schools.

Professional Development

In 1998, a range of professional development opportunities were offered to support teachers of ESL learners.

Professional development at LMERC

Two hundred and fifty eight teachers participated in 21 workshops held for teachers of ESL students, including information sessions where teachers can learn more about the cultural backgrounds of their students, successful classroom strategies, and how to use key ESL curriculum documents.

Twenty six teachers new to teaching ESL attended a full day workshop held in term 1, 1998.

Thirty-nine ESL in the Mainstream tutors attended one of two full day workshops held to update tutors on recent initiatives in ESL.

Over 150 Multicultural Education Aides accessed one of three professional development days organised by the ESL Project Officers at LMERC.

In 1998, there were 18 participants in the training course “Working with Children and Adolescents Affected by Trauma” run by Foundation House and coordinated by the ESL Project Officers at LMERC.

ESL in the Mainstream Professional Development Course

In 1998 13 primary schools, 16 secondary schools, 1 English Language School and the Victorian School for the Deaf participated in this ten-week course, which is aimed at ESL teachers and subject teachers working in mainstream schools with students from language backgrounds other than English.

ESL training program

15 teachers were supported by the Department to undertake approved TESOL courses.
