

Navigator Program

Consent, information sharing and protecting privacy

What is the Navigator program?

Navigator is a free Department of Education and Training (DET) program that works with young people (aged 12-17), their families and support networks to overcome barriers to educational engagement and to help them re-engage with their education.

The program is delivered in partnership between DET, a community service provider (who is contracted to deliver the program), the young person and their family, and their school/education setting.

Both DET and the service provider collect and store personal and health information of the young people who are referred to the program. DET and the service provider use that information to support the student's re-engagement with education. They will only disclose it to other program partners where necessary to provide support to the young person and deliver the program.

The Navigator program and its partners (i.e. DET, services providers and schools/education settings) must comply with relevant privacy laws when collecting and handling all personal and health information. They will only use or disclose the young person's information with consent or as permitted by law.

How does the Navigator program collect and use information about students?

1. Participation in the Navigator program is via a referral form. Anyone can complete the form, but parent/carer consent is required before it is submitted (some exceptions apply). The person making the referral should ensure the consenting parent/carer understands what information is being collected as part of the referral.

Referral forms are received by a local DET Navigator Coordinator who will review the form and then contact the young person's school/education setting (and at times, the referrer/parent/carer) to gather any other supporting information. Following this, they will either:

- a) pass the referral onto the local service provider who will contact the parent/carer to commence the process of providing Navigator support, or
- b) contact the referrer or parent/carer to advise that the young person is not eligible for the program (or that Navigator is not the most appropriate program for them) and discuss other supports/referrals available.

All of the information gathered at this stage will be recorded and stored in a secure data management system that is only accessible to authorised Navigator staff. A list of the data that is collected as part of the referral process is on pages 4-5.

2. When a young person's referral is passed onto the local service provider, they will review the referral form as well as other information provided by the school/education setting and contact the young person's parent/carer to:

- introduce themselves, explain the program and answer any questions
- discuss privacy and information recording processes
- seek consent for the young person to participate in the Navigator program.

3. If the parent/carer consents to the young person participating in the program, the service provider may ask the parent/carer for more information about why the young person has disengaged from education and for other information, to help identify the best way to support them. Throughout the young person's participation in the Navigator program, the service provider will record the information that they need to help them provide support in one of two places:

- Navigator Program Data Management System: for information that is needed by the Navigator team (and potentially school/education provider), to support the young person to re-engage with education, or for the effective delivery of the program, OR
- The service providers' records: for more sensitive information that is shared with the service provider to enable them to provide the best support possible to the young person but is not necessary or appropriate to share with DET staff or schools. This information will only be accessible by the service provider and will be kept in a secure system in line with relevant privacy and information sharing legislation.

The service provider will decide the most appropriate place to record the information they received and can discuss this with the young person/parent/carer at any time.

4. After the service provider has identified the best way to support the young person, they complete an Entry Survey with the young person and then start delivering support. The level and type of support provided will depend on the needs and situation of the young person and what type of supports the service provider delivers - this varies across areas but may include intensive case management or brief interventions. The service provider will discuss this with the parent/carer.

As above, relevant information will be collected and recorded by the service provider and only shared with the Navigator Coordinator and/or school/education setting if required to enable the young person to receive relevant support or for the effective running of the program.

5. The Navigator Coordinator or service provider may refer a young person (or suggest a referral) to other support services such as psychologists, social workers, tutors, education supports, other allied health practitioners or DET staff members. Parent/carer consent will be sought before any external referrals are made.

6. To measure the program's effectiveness and ensure the appropriate level of support is provided, the young person's school/education setting is asked to provide the Navigator team with:

- monthly attendance data (for up to 1 year from when the young person finished receiving Navigator support*), and
- updates about how they are supporting the young person's engagement and what strategies they have tried or are using to support the young person's engagement.

7. When it is time for the young person to exit the program and stop receiving Navigator support, they (and their parent/carer) will be notified in writing and the young person will be asked to complete an Exit Survey. The young person's file in the Navigator data management system will be retained but will no longer be used or viewed beyond essential program reporting, unless further support is requested.

Reasons why the young person is exiting the program, their Exit Survey and details of any referrals/supports suggested or made will be stored in Navigator's data management system.

Consenting to the Navigator program

Consent for the Navigator program is a two-step process requiring consent for the young person to:

- be referred to the program, and then to
- commence participating in the program (which is when they start receiving support from the service provider).

All referrals to Navigator are via an online referral form. This form asks for confirmation that the parent/carer/guardian or mature minor consents to the referral being submitted. Only a Navigator Coordinator (or their delegate) can submit a referral without this consent.

Before consenting to a referral being submitted, the parent/carer/guardian or mature minor should understand:

- what information will be collected and stored as part of the referral process (see pages 4-5),
- how the program collects, shares and stores the young person's personal and health information (see pages 1-2)
- what will happen if the Navigator team want to refer the young person to another support service (pages 2-3).

If the young person is deemed suitable for the program, the service provider will contact the parent/carer/guardian or mature minor to ask if they consent to the young person participating in the program. This consent involves agreeing to, at a minimum:

- the young person's information being stored and shared with services and organisations with whom a relevant shared care responsibility is held, such as DET and the school, where necessary to support their re-engagement with education
- the program monitoring the young person's school attendance rates during and up to 1 year after they have exited the program.

If verbal consent is given initially (e.g. over the phone), the service provider will then seek written consent as confirmation.

Consent to participate can be withdrawn at any stage by the parent/carer/guardian or mature minor.
