

FOR THE LATEST NEWS FROM THE LEARN LOCAL SECTOR, PROVIDING QUALITY TRAINING FOR ADULTS IN EMPLOYMENT AND EDUCATION

Message from the Minister...

During a visit to the Banksia Gardens Community Centre in March, I had the pleasure of announcing the recipients of the third round of the Adult, Community and Further Education (ACFE) Capacity and Innovations grants, with Banksia being one of the recipients. Banksia will use their funding to work collaboratively with Hume City Council and Broadmeadows businesses to match training to local business needs.

I would like to offer my congratulations to all those organisations who have been awarded the grants, as they showcase the impressive breadth of Learn Local projects going on across Victoria. These projects are of great benefit to learners, Learn Local organisations and most importantly, the communities which they serve.

The third round of Capacity and Innovation grants will provide a total $2.3 million boost to the sector, highlighting our commitment to building Learn Local business capacity, supporting innovative teaching and learning practice and to providing industry-focused training opportunities with a double benefit: helping increase the training base of the community and providing local businesses with work-ready employees.

I look forward with great interest to seeing all of the promising Round 3 projects rolled out during the year.

– Peter Hall, Minister for Higher Education and Skills

Second series underway - apply now!

Following the success of the first series of TV show "A House around the Corner" applications are now open for Learn Local organisations to star in Series 2! This is a wonderful opportunity to get your organisation into the media and to celebrate the stories and successes of your learners, staff and communities.

The show, funded by ACFE, highlights the stories and successes of the Learn Local sector. The videos are streamed online after they air and segments can also be made available to organisations to use for their own promotional purposes. The second series will be screened on Channel 31 from September to November 2012.

So how do you get involved? Fill out the application attached to General Memo 2012/05 before 20 April. Stories will be considered in the order they are received so be quick to put in your application!

NAB 'Schools First' School-Community partnership applications now open

This opportunity is for Learn Local organisations to foster and enhance partnerships with schools. The 2012 NAB Schools First Awards have $3 million available to 130 outstanding school-community partnerships.

The awards program is divided into three parts. The Impact Awards recognise established school-community partnerships. The Seed Funding Awards helps new and developing partnership. The third category awards partnership ideas initiated by students - The Student Awards.

The best starting point is to look at the website for further information. Stuck for an idea? The website has literally hundreds of examples of ways in which community organisations have partnered with schools.

The application will need to be lodged by your partner school and there is plenty of time to get talking – you have until 29 June to lodge the application.

e-Learning skills help ACFE staff improve service to the sector

When the ACFE Board needed to roll out the training for its pilot project International Computer Driving Licence (ICDL), the Gippsland team offered to use virtual conferencing (Blackboard Collaborate) to benefit organisations from around the state that were unable to travel to the nearest training. And for those who could neither travel nor participate in real-time, the session was recorded and distributed via a link, which could be viewed at any time.

People from as far as Robinvale in the north-west, Wonthaggi in the south and Swifts Creek in the east of Victoria could virtually sit together and access the required training.

Special thanks to e-mentor Junita Lyon for her support to the ACFE Gippsland team.
